The rates charged for registry are the maximum, and any Notary may charge at any cheaper rates that he may find to pay by attracting customers. Notary Offices. 4 he Office of the Notary must be situated in some public and conspicuous locality, and a board specifying his name and appointment in the language of the country, must be put up in front of the Office, so that all persons may have no difficulty in ascertaining where their agreements can be registered. What transac-The rule No. 5 is subject to special restrictions regarding tious may beeedg affecting immoveable property, to be stated hereafter. registered Any contracts or agreements not expressed in money, may be registered by Notaries. The rule is very broad and authorises registry of all deeds, agreements, and transactions whatever. But this is subject to the proviso, that deeds and agreements which are, on the face of them, illegal and contrary to public policy, as, for instance, an agreement between thieves for the division of their spoil, cannot be registered; and in all cases of doubt regarding the application of this rule, the Kegistrar should report for orders. On the other hand registry is not to be refused on account of the objections of a third party who thinks his interests affected, unless there is actual criminal fraud. We must always recollect that a registered Bond has not the force of a judgment of the Courts; for registration does not necessarily make a...
