Come, O thou Traveler unknown, Whom still I hold but cannot see; My company before is gone, And I am left alone with thee: With thee all night I mean to stay, And wrestle till the break of day. 1756, January 1. --The cheerfulness and joy that gladden so many hearths to-day find no place at mine. I am sitting alone in this tomb-like place. Even the gambols and mock combats of my little fellow-prisoners afford me not the least entertainment. My hope of seeing home gives place to a feeling of stolid indifference. Is it the mind, or the body, that suffers this depression Night. --A deep gloom surrounds me. I seem to have a sombre sullenness of soul. Must I commence the new year under a cloud so dark January 2. --Long did I lie awake in the night. A verse...
